President's message

I am delighted to write this foreword for the Statistics Handbook that concerns the IAAF World Youth Championships, Donetsk, Ukraine, which take place from the 10 to 14 July 2013 in Donetsk's RSC Olimpiyskyi Stadium.

It seems remarkable that two years have passed since I communicated a similar message to Lille, France, which hosted the seventh edition of these championships. For this year's hosts Ukraine, the championships are an historic moment as they mark the first occasion that this highly successful athletics nation has hosted an IAAF World Athletics Series event.

Since the inaugural IAAF World Youth Championships took place in Bydgoszcz, Poland in 1999, only ten athletes have so far won IAAF World Championship titles at youth, junior and senior level. The latest athletes to join that exclusive club were Tatyana Chernova (Hep), Kirani James (400m) and David Storl (SP) who won senior titles in Daegu 2011. However, James is unique in the fact that unlike all previous youth champions he made the transition from youth (2009) to junior (2010) to senior (2011) World champion in three consecutive seasons!

During Donetsk 2013 we will once again have the privilege to survey the future stars and trends of our sport, as we watch the current generation of children compete on a global track and field platform for the first time in their young careers. Possibly another James awaits in the wings but most importantly we hope that the IAAF World Youth Championships will help to encourage and inspire the youth of every generation to take up our sport.

I thoroughly recommend this Statistics Handbook which has been compiled diligently by the statisticians of the IAAF Statistics and Documentation Service, it is an invaluable resource for media and fans alike who wish to gain maximum enjoyment and understanding of the inspiring competitions we will witness in Donetsk.
